This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

I think the historian came to his conclusion with regard to the coat of Willoughby without having seen it here.

VI. Heydon.

VII. Heydon, impaling, Gules, a fesse between three boars' heads argent, each holding in its mouth a bezant (More of Norwich. Three Norf. Arm., Cod. B, 263, gives it thus without the "bezant.")

Shields in the South Windows of the Chancel.

X. Heydon, impaling, Quarterly:—1 and 4, Argent, four windmill sails joined together in saltire sable (Loverd of Heydon.—Bl. Norf. vi. 504); 2 and 3, Azure, a garb or. I cannot help thinking that this impalement is a canting coat, and that the second and third quarterings represent the wheat, ground into flour by means of the sails, on the first and fourth, and that the original Loverd may have been a miller. At any rate, this impalement clearly proves that "Azure, a garb or," or as Bl. Norf. quotes it, "Gules, a garb or," has nothing whatever to do with More, because, if it be a veritable coat at all, it was brought in by Loverd.

"Hugh Heydon married Alice, daughter and heir of Roger Loverd of Heydon."—Vis. of Norf. ii. 185.

XI. Quarterly:—1 and 4, Heydon; 2, Warren; 3, Oulton; impaling, Argent, a chevron gules between three bulls' heads couped sable, Boleyn.

Vixit annos quinquagenta, tres menses quatuor, obiit decimo nono die mensis Martii, A.D. 1593." A great deal of the inscription is gone.

Brass Figure of a Lady fixed to the East Wall of the South Aisle.

XV. (On the dexter side of the dress.) Heydon and Oulton. (On the sinister side.) Quarterly:—1 and 4, In chief a cross tau between two mullets (Drury, Argent, on a chief vert a cross tau between two mullets or); 2 and 3, Two lions passant crowned.

Sir Christopher Heydon of Baconsthorpe, son and heir of Sir Christopher Heydon and Anne his wife, daughter of John Hevingham, married Anne, daughter of Sir William Drury of Hawstead in Suffolk. *Bl. Brass Shield on the East Wall of the South Aisle.

XVII. Quarterly:—1 and 4, Heydon; 2, Warren; 3, Oulton. From the exact similarity in shape and size I think this must be one of the shields belonging to No. V.

Slabs in the Tower.

XVIII. A chevron engrailed between three escallops (Britiffe, Argent, a chevron engrailed between three escallops sable.—Three Norf. Arm., Cod. A, 225); impaling, A saltire engrailed; on a chief three cross-crosslets, charged at the honour point with a martlet for difference (Longe of Spixworth, Gules, a saltire engrailed or; on a chief of the last three cross-crosslets of the first.) Crest: A column crowned between two wings erect.

And ye said Edmund dyed ye 28 day of June in ye yeare of our Lord 1715, aged 86." Edmond Britiffe married Mary, daughter of . . . . . Longe of Spixworth. There are other memorials without shields. XX. A chevron engrailed between three griffins passant (Newman, Azure, a chevron wavy between three griffins segreant or.—Three Norf. Arm., Cod. B, 277. On these memorial slabs of Newman, "the chevron" is at times certainly not engrailed in the usual way, and may be intended for "wavy." The griffins are more often "segreant" than "passant," and I think the former was intended); impaling, A chevron between, in chief two birds, and in base a pair of shears (Lannoy or Delanoy, Azure, a chevron between in chief two swans, and in base a pair of shears argent.) Crest: On a plume of three feathers a griffin's head erased (Newman, On a plume of five feathers, three azure and two or, a griffin's head of the last.)

XXIX. Quarterly of seven:—1, Heydon; 2, Loverd; 3, A garb; 4, Oulton; 5, Warren; 6, On a chevron three swans; 7, Semée of cross-crosslets three lozenges. See No. XIII. Impaling, Quarterly of six:—1, Three lions passant in pale (Carew, Or, three lions passant in pale sable, armed and langued gules); 2, Three serpents (Odron, Argent, three serpents, two and one, enwrapped vert); 3, A maunch, the hand holding a fleur-de-lis (Mohun, Gules, a maunch ermine, the hand proper holding a fleur-de-lis or); 4, Three roundels; in chief, a label of three (Courtenay, Or, three torteaux with a label of three); 5, Three chevronels (Archdeckne, Argent, three chevronels sable); 6, A . . . . . between three fleurs-de-lis . .

I was of opinion, at first, from the style of the stonework around this shield, and the formation of it, that it might have been at one time over an altar tomb in the church. It bears the coat of Sir Christopher Heydon and his second wife (he had three) Temperance, daughter of Sir Wymond Carew of Anthony. It is probably a portion of stonework from the hall.

Stand, Living man, Learne from this stone
What small dimensions measure one
In death, though high her quality
By Birth, by grace she higher bee,
Here lies one nobly borne, one blest
With all the riches of the East,
Then stript of all, and in the place
Received of God riches of grace.
These made her covetous to see
The mine whence came such tresurie.
This God observing called her; shee
Would take the opportunitie
Her soul for haste there to appeare
Clogged with the body, dropt it here,
Engaging to it, on the morne
Of the resurrection to return
And reassume its union.
Weigh this, and then, reader, pass on.

This shield is so much worn that I had great difficulty in distinguishing the quarterings, but through the kind help of my friend, the Rev. C. R. Manning, I can now safely assert that the above description is a correct one. I am indebted to him for an extract from the Sussex Archæological Collections, vol. viii., p. 122, which contains a pedigree and long memoir of Lord Hoo and Hastyngs, and it is therein stated that the usual bearing of that nobleman was Hoo and St. Omer quarterly, with St. Leger on an escutcheon of pretence, which, it says, was on his plate as a Knight of the Garter; impaling, Sable, three crosses pattée or, for Wychingham, the first wife (it ought to be "Ermine, on a chief sable three crosses pattée argent"); and afterwards, Or, a lion rampant sable, for Wells (it should have been with a double tail.) He did not wear the griffin as it appears on his grandfather's and half-brother's seals, as a crest, but "a bull statant, quarterly sable and argent, horned or." Isabel St. Leger was an heiress, and the wife of Sir Thomas Hoo, who died 1380, whose son, Sir William Hoo, married Alice de St. Omer, and Thomas, Lord Hoo and Hastings, was their grandson. Mr. Manning suggests that the escutcheon of pretence was an easy method of quartering, to save space and muddle. Jeffery Boleyn married Anne, daughter and coheir of Thomas, Lord Hoo and Hastings.

BYLAUGH.

I. Brass on the Floor, with Portraitures and three Shields remaining.

1. Quarterly:—1 and 4, Two lions passant, crowned (Felton, Gules, two lions passant ermine, crowned or); 2 and 3, A bend (Curson, Ermine, a bend chequy argent and sable); impaling, Quarterly:—1 and 4, On a chevron three boars' heads couped (Swynford, Argent, on a chevron sable three boars' heads couped or); 2 and 3, On a chief two pierced mullets (Drury, Argent, on a chief vert, two pierced mullets or.)
2. Swynford.
3. Swynford impaling Drury.

The inscription remains, "D^{ni} John Curson militis, qui obiit 20 die mensis Januarii, 1471, et D^{ni} Johē consortis suæ quæ obiit . . . . . die mensis . . . . . A. Dni. 14 . . ." The latter date never was filled in. On the subject of the peculiar position of the quarterings and impalement on this brass I wrote to Notes and Queries in 1886, inquiring whether any other like example was known, to which letter I received no answer. I think shield 1 should be thus, Quarterly:—1 and 4, Curson; 2 and 3, Felton; impaling, Quarterly:—1 and 4, Drury; 2 and 3, Swynford, and that shield 3 should be Drury impaling Swynford. It is stated in Bl. Norf. viii. 190, Vis. of Norf. ii. 19, and Cotman's Brasses, 32, that Sir John Curson, to whose memory this brass was here placed, married Joan Bacon, which statement I believe to be entirely wrong, and that instead his wife was a daughter of Sir William Drury of Rougham, co. Suffolk. That Curson should quarter Felton would be quite right, for Sir John Curson of Beck Hall married Mary, daughter and heiress of Sir Thomas Felton, K.G. See Carthew's Launditch, i. 158. Drury might quarter Swynford, for Sir William Drury, ancestor of the Drurys of Rougham, married Katherine, daughter of Sir Ottes Swynford. See Burke's Extinct Baronetcies, p. 170. I think that some of the shields on the porch of Cley Church are a similar example of peculiar quartering and impalement.

MORTON.

I. Tomb in the North Chapel, with Four raised Shields.

1. (At the top.) Three cinquefoils; a bordure (Southwell of St. Faith's, granted 15th December, 1568, Argent, three cinquefoils within a bordure gules.) Crest: A demi-talbot, ducally gorged (Southwell, A demi Indian goat rampant, ducally gorged.)

3. Three cinquefoils (Darcy, Argent, three cinquefoils gules.)
4. Southwell impaling Darcy.

There are two inscriptions on this tomb, one in brass for "Mary Southwell, late wife to Donsany Southwell, Esq., Lord of this Manor, Departed this life the 29th of May, A.D. 1636"; and one incised below, "Here lieth the Body of Thomas Southwell, Esq., second sonn of Sir Richard Southwell of Woodrisinge in the county of Norff., Knight, deceased, which Thomas dyed unmarried, with the good love and reputation of all men in his the age of threescore years, and so departed this life upon the eighth day of Aprill, Ao. Dom̃ 1609, being Lord of this Manor and Bewlder of the capital Mantiõ House thereupon." The shield at the top of this tomb certainly bears the arms of Donsany Southwell (a younger son of Thomas Southwell of Spixworth), who, according to Bl. Norf. viii. 236, married Mary, daughter of Thomas Shuthwell of Biskton in Shropshire, which in Vis. of Norf. i. 127, is "Mary, da. of Thomas Southwell, &c." No. 4 shield on the base of the tomb should, in my opinion, have been quartered, and would thus be the arms of Thomas Southwell, above mentioned, whose mother, the wife of Sir Richard Southwell of Woodrising, was a Darcy of Essex. See Vol. I., p. 324. It may be that the arms on the base are also for Donsany Southwell and his wife, but, in that case "the bordure," the difference granted to the Southwells of St. Faith's, is omitted.

CLACKCLOSE HUNDRED.

BARTON ST. ANDREW.

Tiles on the Floor at the East End of the Church.

I. Lozengy . . . . . and ermine; in chief a label of three, De Ferrers?

In Bl. Norf. vii. 278, this pavement is mentioned, and it is stated that "thereon are cinquefoils, stars, mullets, lozengys, ... and ermine, &c."; vii. 280 states that these arms, "Lozengy argent and azure, on every lozenge azure a fleur-de-lis or," were in the church. I cannot but think that the "ermine spot" and "the fleur-de-lis" are one and the same. Papworth assigns to Sire William de Ferreres this coat, "Lozengy gules and or. It is certain from Bl. Norf. vii. 270, that "Lovels manor of Barton was given by William I. to Hermerus de Ferrers." Tuddenham also bore "Lozengy gules and argent," and this family had some slight connection with the place, see Bl. vii. 277, but I think these tiles are of earlier date than that. There is a fireplace at Castle Rising castle decorated with them, and on the shields there are some well-known Norfolk coats. It is generally supposed that these tiles were made at Bawsey.

II. Three crescents (Thorpe, Azure, three crescents argent.)

The connection between this family and Barton must have been through the Bainards. See Vol. I. p. 183. Ralph Bainard, a Norman lord, had at the Conquest the grant of a capital manor here, now called Bainard's Hall.—Bl. Norf. vii. 277.

Coloured Shields on the Rood Screen.

III. Gules, on a chevron argent, three roses of the field, Knolles, Knollys, or Knowles.

IV. Argent, a fesse dancettée sable between three leopards' faces of the second, langued gules, Beverley.

"Restored in memory of Edward Beck, March 24, 1866."

"The church here was built by Sir Robert Knowles, a famous general in the reigns of Edward III. and Richard II., in the wars in France, and on the screen are his arms with those of his wife, probably a Beverley."—Bl. Norf. viii. 458. "The Beverley arms are associated with those of Sir Robert Knollys inside this church, and were impaled with his repeatedly at Sculthorpe and other churches."—Norf. Archy. viii. 25. "Sir Robert Knolles provided for his own soul, the soul of his very dear wife Constance, and all Christian souls."—Her. and Gen. v. 296.

Shields on the Battlements of the South Aisle, commencing at the West End.

V. A fesse dancettée between three . . . . . (Beverley? See No. IV. The charges are very indistinct, but the outline is more like "an escallop" than "a leopard's face." They are drawn as "roses" or "cinquefoils" in Norf. Archy. viii. 25, and Her. and Gen. v. 296, 298.)

From the position of this shield as first in the sequence, there can be no doubt but that it is the coat of someone intimately connected with the place, or the building of the aisle, and thus it has been assigned to Constance Beverley, Lady Knollys. See No. IV.

VI. A cross engrailed (Gournay or Gurney, Argent, a cross engrailed gules.)

"In the 35th of Edward I., John de Gournay was Lord, Patron, and Rector of this Parish and Church."—Bl. Norf. viii. 452. Having built the present chancel of Harpley Church he was buried therein, dying in the 6th of Edward III., 1332, and was commemorated by a portraiture in brass, now unfortunately torn away, but the stone and its inscription are represented in the Record of the House of Gournay, p. 344; Her. and Gen. v. 298; Norf. Archy. viii. 19.

VII. A gridiron, St. Laurence. The patron saint of Harpley church.

VIII. Same as No. VII.

IX. A fesse between three roses, Uphall?

This coat is on the sedilia of Wickmere church, vol. ii., p. 61, and also on a buttress of Docking church.

From the important position of this shield in the sequence, it must be, I think, the coat of some family connected with the place. There are three manors, Gournays, Calthorpes, and Uphall. At Wickmere also there is an Uphall manor, and in 1261 Roger de Uphall granted a messuage of 50 acres and the moiety of the advowson, with the reversion of the land which Clarice, widow of Roger, son of Ralf de Uphall, held in the county.—Bl. Norf. vi. 457.

X. On a chevron . . . . . (Knolles? See No. III. The charges are very indistinct, indeed I cannot discern them though I examined the shield very closely.)

For the connection between Sir Robert Knolles and this place, see the account of these shields in Norf. Archy. viii. 25; Her. and Gen. v. 296; Record of the House of Gournay.

XI. Chequy (De Warenne or Warren, Chequy, or and azure.)

The Conqueror granted this town to William, Earl Warren.

XII. Same as No. XI.

XIII. Quarterly, a bendlet (Clavering? Quarterly, or and gules, a bend sable. These arms are taken from Le Neve's papers, and given in Three Norf. Arm., Cod. A, 249.)

I cannot account for this shield being here. It is attributed in Her. and Gen. and Norf. Archy. to Lacey, Earl of Lincoln, who was the chief lord to whom Sir Robert Knolles owed service at Pontefract.

XIV. Same as No. XII.

XV. A cross of lozenges (Ufford? Sable, a cross engrailed or. Burke has it in one place, "Sable, a cross lozengy or.")

This is the only instance I have met with in which the coat of Ufford is carved "of lozenges" instead of "engrailed," but Her. and Gen. v. 300, says, that in blazon the lozengy form was frequently connected with the engrailed, the latter being, in fact, the modern treatment of the former. If that be the case the cause why it was so drawn here is obvious, to distinguish it from the coat of Gournay. See No. VI. It was intended probably for Sir Robert Ufford, Earl of Suffolk.

XVI. Same as No. XV.

XVII. A fesse between two chevrons (Walpole? Or, on a fesse between two chevrons sable, three cross-crosslets of the field.)

It is impossible to assign this coat with certainty to any one of the many families in Norfolk who bore it, such as Fitzwalter, Gerbridge, or Tendring. Her. and Gen. v. 300, says, it was probably intended for Walpole, the original coat of that family being, "Or, a fesse between two chevronels sable," and the cross-crosslets of the Earls of Orford, the difference of a junior line."

XVIII. Same as No. XVII.

XIX. Three chevronels (Clare or Fitz Gilbert, Earl of Clare, Or, three chevronels gules. See GREAT BIRCHAM church.)

"Walter Giffard, Earl of Buckinghamshire, was succeeded by a son of his own name, who dying without issue in the reign of Henry II., his great inheritance was divided among his sisters and coheirs, one of whom, Rohais, brought the lordship of Gt. Bircham to Richard Fitz Gilbert, Earl of Clare."—Bl. Norf. x. 292. "Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Clare, on his marriage with Joan, daughter of King Edward I., granted it to the said king."—Bl. Norf. x. 292.

XX. Same as No. XIX.

XXI. Three cinquefoils (Bardolf, Azure, three cinquefoils or.)

The family of Bardolf held land in many parts of this county, and their coat of arms is still to be seen in and on many a church.

XXII. Same as No. XXI.

XXIII. A fesse engrailed between three Catherine wheels . . . . . .

"These arms, the field argent and the charges sable, are attributed to Casteler, and the same arms with those tinctures were in Sculthorp, Mundford, North Barsham, and Cromer, in each case accompanying Knolles, and at Mundford they are quartered by Tindall."—Her. and Gen. v. 301.

XXIV. A fesse between three pick-axes (Pigott? Gules, a fesse between three picks or.)

"A family of this name was early settled in Framingham Pigot in Norfolk, and one branch removed to Stradsett, near Downham Market."—Her. and Gen. v. 301.

XXV. Three ostrich feathers erect with escrolls, Edward, the Black Prince.

The exact counterpart of this shield is on one of the misereres in St. Margaret's church, King's Lynn, and on the nave roof at South Creake. Her. and Gen. v. 301, says, "This is what was called by the Black Prince in his will, when describing his intended tomb at Canterbury, his arms for peace, and it doubtless was erected at Harpley in commemoration of the same gallant chieftain, the friend and patron of Sir Robert Knolles."

XXVI. Same as XXI.

XXVII. St. Lawrence.

XXVIII. St. Lawrence.

XXIX. Gyrony of twelve (Bassingbourne, Gyrony of twelve, azure and or, vol. i. 20.)

This coat is, throughout the county, blazoned, both like this and "Gyrony of eight." See No. XXXIII. Her. and Gen. v. 302, says, "that until a certain period the pieces of the gyrony were always unnumbered, and that families using the device would represent it each way, but that in the reign of Edw. III. the numbers were specified."

XXX. A bend between six cross-crosslets fitchée (Howard, Gules, a bend between six cross-crosslets fitchée argent.)

The Howards were, at this time, located at Winch and Wiggenhall, and owned much land.

XXXI. A fesse between three cross-crosslets (Beauchamp? Gules, a fesse between six cross-crosslets or.)

This shield, properly blazoned, was in Sculthorpe Church; still, I have great doubt in assigning it to that family here.

XXXII. Six escallops, three, two, and one (Scales, Gules, six escallops, three, two, and one, or.)

This family was located at Middleton.

XXXIII. Gyrony of eight (Bassingbourne, Gyrony of eight, or and azure. See No. XXIX.)

The family of Trusbut, residing at Runcton Holme about this time, bore "Gyrony of eight, azure and ermine," and to this family Her. and Gen. v. 303, attributes this shield, but I could distinguish no sign of the "ermine" in the carving, nor have I met with this Trusbut coat carved in stone in any Norfolk church, though it was, says Bl. Norf., in the windows of Marham and Fincham.

XXXIV. Same as XXXIII.

XXXV. Paly of twelve, in sinister canton, a lion passant guardant (Longcaster? Paly of seven, argent and gules, on a canton of the last a lion passant guardant of the first.)

I cannot account satisfactorily for this coat at all.

XXXVI. Same as No. XXXV.

XXXVII. Chequy, on a crescent three cinquefoils (Burnham? The illustration of this very curious shield is given with the rest in Her. and Gen. v. 305, and Norf. Archy. viii. 25.)

I have not been able to identify this coat, though it is assigned to the family of Burnham in both the above-named works. They were descended from the De Warennes, and it is quite likely that "the field" would be "chequy," and they might use a crescent for difference. "The Burnhams were for some long time Lords of the Manor of Gournays here."—Bl. Norf. viii. 454.

XXXVIII. Chequy, a fesse ermine (Calthorpe, Chequy azure and or, a fesse ermine.)

"The Calthorpes manor in this parish was held under the Earl Warren, and in the 45th of Henry III. by William de Calthorpe, and in the 17th of Edward II. by Sir Walter de Calthorpe, and in this family continued till Elizabeth, sister and heir of Philip Calthorpe, Esq., and only daughter of Sir Philip Calthorpe, brought it by marriage to Sir Henry Parker."—Bl. Norf. viii. 453.

XXXIX. A cross (St. George, Argent, a cross gules.)

XL. St. Lawrence.

It will be noticed that the last four shields have decidedly a local signification. Much more detailed accounts will be found in all the aforementioned works.

XLI. There is a shield mentioned as being in a chancel window, "Vairy, argent and gules," for Noiers, but I could not distinguish it, though there is a window on the south side constructed from pieces. "Sir Simon de Noiers of Norfolk is mentioned in the roll temp. Ed. III."—Her. and Gen. v. 302.

HILLINGTON.

I. Monument on the North Wall of the Chancel, with kneeling Figure and Three Shields.

1. (At the top.) Sable, a crescent or, Hovel or Hovell. Crest: A lion couchant (Hovell of Ashfield, A greyhound couchant or, collared and lined sable.)
2. Hovell, impaling, Argent, a wolf rampant sable (Ford of Frating. The wolf should be "salient.")

This sacred marble, for a wife beloved,
Records, through every age, a mourning husband.
Alas! below lies in the silent vault
Mary Lady Browne, so far as she was mortal,
Daughter, dimidiate heir of Charles Greene, Esqre.,
And wife of Sir William Browne, Kt., M.D.,
Pleasing, placid, personable, prudent, pious,
Worthy of the praise which this his verse bestows.

One out of many worthy Hymen's flame,
One out of many the last tear to claim,
Worthy to have recorded in this stone
Virtues that in her life so brightly shone.

She hath left a dear and onely daughter, Mary, married to William Folkes, Esq., and by her a dear and onely grandson, Martin, a youth of fairest expectations, an Eton Scholar, now in the third form. Peace, which she loves, she now enjoys æternal. Her birth was on the feast of St. Michael, MDCXCIX.; Her marriage was on the feast of St. Bartholomew, MDCCXVII.; Her death on the feast of St. James, MDCCLXIII."

II. A boar's head couped at the neck argent, in the mouth an acorn proper, leaved vert, Hill.

There are memorials of this family in the churchyard, some of which are remnants of monumental tablets taken out of the church after the fire which devastated it in 1879. On his death it descended to his only daughter Margaret, wife of Ralph, Lord Stafford. In this family it continued till the attainder of Edward Stafford, Duke of Buckingham, beheaded in 1521."—Bl. Norf. ix. 282, 283. It is stated that Stafford's arms were in the east window.

V. Obliterated. Bl. Norf. ix. 286 gives it as, "Three lions guardant, in pale passant," which would be for England.

Would shee her glory should anticipate,
Her blessed pilotts when she wafted hence
Were graceful meekeness, candid patience,
By whose fayre guydance shee her Arke did steere
Yet mett with syrtes (sic) where none expected were,
Maugre all which, shees now arriv'd in Heaven
Where efluctuances are changed to smoth and even."

VI. A chevron, Stafford; impaling, Three water bougets (Ros or Roos, Gules, three water bougets argent.)

I think this coat should be reversed, for "Thomas de Roos, who was in the service of the Black Prince at the battle of Poictiers in 1383, was, with his wife Beatrix, daughter of Ralf, Earl of Stafford, the widow of Maurice Fitz Morris, Earl of Desmond, seized of the manors of Reifham, Hackford, Watton, half Holt and Cleye."—*Bl. SHIELDS ON THE SOUTH PORCH AT CLEY.

XI. An escutcheon within an orle of eight martlets (Vaux, Argent, an escutcheon between eight martlets gules.)

Bl. Norf. ix. 370, gives the coat for Erpingham, but I can find no connection between that family and the manor here, and certainly these shields appear to have a proper sequence.

XII. A lion rampant (Nerford, Gules, a lion rampant ermine.)

"At the death of John de Vaux, A.D. 16th Edward I., his whole estate was divided between his two coheirs, Maud, who married William de Roos (see No. VI.); and Petronilla, who married William de Nerford: the latter had no further connection with Cley, but received Thurston, Shottesham, Apleton, and part of Holt."—*Bl. II. Five lozenges in fesse; in chief two martlets respecting each other (Dawbency or Daubene, Gules, five lozenges in fesse argent; in chief two martlets respecting each other sable. See p. 25.) I think this shield must be a portion of a brass with kneeling figures and inscription, now placed on the same wall above a doorway.

"Christopher Dawbeney, Esquire, had to his wife Phillippa, the daughter of Mr. Robertes, in the countye of Essx̄, Esquire, of whome he begat five sonnes and three daughters, that is to say, Henry, Thomas, Arthure, Clement, and Robte, the twoe latter beinge twennes; and Jone married to Edwd Brampton of Brampton, Francys marryed to William Dynne of Heydon in the county of Norff., Gent., and the third daughter dyed a virgin. Holt Hundred*, p. 126, Jone Daubeney is made out to be the wife of William Dynne of Heydon. There is another inscription on the same wall, "Of yo^{r} charite pray for the soules of Thomas Dawbeney, Esquire, sūtyme lorde and patron of this Churche, and Ann his wife, which Thomas depted y^{e} fyrst day of Janūy in y^{e} yer of o^{r} Lord God MV.XXVII."

Brass Shield on the Wall.

III. A lion rampant within a bordure (Sharington? Argent, a lion rampant gules, over all a bend gobonné or and azure.—Three Norf. Arm., Cod. B, 351.) This shield is very much worn, and the above is more a suggestion than anything else. I cannot with certainty identify it. There is a figure of a knight attached to the same wall, with an inscription, "Orate p. aīa Johis Sharyngton, Gen., qui obiit x die Septēber, A° Dni. M.CCCC.LXXXX.VIII."

There is no inscription, but there can be little doubt but that it was erected in memory of Sir William Butts, High Sheriff of Norfolk and Suffolk, 1563, who died September 3, 1583, and was buried in Thornage church. He married Joan (Jane?), eldest daughter and coheir of Henry Bures of Acton in Suffolk. He left his property to his niece Anne, the daughter of his brother Edmund Butts, by his wife Anne Bures, another of the coheiresses of Bures of Acton, which niece Anne married Nicholas Bacon, Esq., of Redgrave in Suffolk, who with her husband and mother are there interred. And cheerful spirit, Forty years a wife;
Mother's sweet title owned she not, but found
Children in all the families of Want:
Her's was the social warmth that glads the Heart
And knits the bond of charity below;
And her's was life's enjoyment, offering still
The tribute of her happiness to Heaven.
They praise the giver best who use the gift
With grateful gladness, and exhibit here
The proof most sensible that GOD is good.
Doubt not her goodness, thou whose arm no more
Sustains thy partner's steps, deep is thy wound,
Not cureless, for not e'en the sparrow falls
Without Him to the ground; and thou and I
Weep not unseen—Our Father is in Heaven."
